SCHOLARLY AND PROFESSIONAL ACTIVITIES

Editor-in-chief: Health Reform Observer / Observatoire des Réformes de Santé (Canada), <https://escarpmentpress.org/hro-ors>

I, with a group of colleagues in Canada (Pan-Canadian Health Reform Analysis Network, PHRAN), have been developing this online free access journal to gather descriptions and comparative analyses of policy reforms in provinces and territories of Canada. The journal was officially launched in May 2013 with its first article published. Thirty nine articles have been published (as of October 2017), generating approximately 400 downloads per article (as of Google Analytics).

Courses Taught

At McMaster, Undergraduate

In 2015, I developed the online version of a course (HA 2FO3: Aging and Health Care Systems) previously taught in person. I worked in consultation with Erin Allard and Joanne Kehoe at the MacPherson Institute (previously MIIETL): we met weekly for two hours to develop and test tools on Avenue to Learn to make the course an enriching learning experience for students. The course was launched online for the first time in January 2016 and is a mixture of online material and online live meetings with students to run discussions and give students the opportunity to ask clarification questions on the material.

- GERONT 3IO3: Aging and Health Care Systems (Winter 2005)
- GERONT 2FO3: Aging and Health Care Systems (Winter 2006, 2007, 2008, 2009, 2010)
